Number 43

By Donna Boecher

Write it down. I've said it before, I say it again. They'll want to know, whoever they are – young or old. How you string your words together doesn't matter. Just tell of those moments of joy, sadness, and everything in between. Do the rocks and trees speak? Listen and write what you hear. Friends or descendants will want to know where you walked and with what thoughts. What did you see and feel that led you to action or inaction? Did the rocks speaking say they are as old as an ancient sea and yet pieces of once molten lava that felt an ancestor's first steps; the fallen leaves will rustle out loud that they've enriched the soil and will continue to ask enticingly of your prodigy that they plant a garden. But where? Kin or the good ole almanac will guide you to the when, what, and where to plant. Always, man has looked to the stars and all the heavenly bodies created by God for the answers (Psalms 19:1-4). Enjoy all the moments this earth offers. But repeatedly, thank the Lord for He is good. . . all the time!

Today's Trail Treks To.....

Managing Yourself

One of the hardest tasks that we humans face in life is learning how to manage ourselves. One might want to call it "growing up." From an early age onward, we depend upon someone else to feed us, clothe us, give us shelter, provide schooling as well as love and encouragement until we can fly on our own. The rest of the animal world operates on a similar principle, yet there is one big difference. If you were an eaglet, your time in the nest is limited. There will come a day when mama eagle nudges you out of the nest, a nest that sits a 1000 feet or more above the ground. Once the eaglet is airborne, it has only one choice: fly or die. This may seem cruel to some of us, yet it is very effective. In our present society, we have human offspring that remain in the nest for sometimes the rest of their parents' lives. They never grow up. They have no sense of responsibility since everything is done for them. It is an epidemic among the youth of today. Free lunches, is what I call it. Yet, we know that there are no "free lunches." How did this "free lunch" principle get started? We need only to look at the welfare state, aka, the nanny state, as created by the democrat party where the "handout" becomes the staple of many lives. Handouts may give one a feel good sensation, but the consequences are dependence upon them, which, in the long run, neither does the individual nor society any good. The proliferation of this mentality can only spell further disaster, as the population becomes more and more dependent upon someone else to take care of it. Today's youth are caught in the throes of this dependency and may, therefore, never learn to manage themselves. Personal responsibility has gone out the window and growing up may be a thing of the past. Government control has taken its place. Stay in the nest. It is a cold, cruel world out there. No worries, the democrats have got your free lunch ready. No need to learn to manage yourself.

Today's Trail has come to an end. Perhaps we will meet again around the bend, my friend. Meanwhile, may your Trail end up on the right side of the fence. Happy Trails to you.

Stilwell @ Stigler: A Tale Of Two Halves

After winning their first two games at home in impressive fashion against two 3A opponents, Roland and Keys, the Stilwell Indians took a long bus ride south to tangle with the 3A Stigler Jaguars. Stigler boasted a 2-0 record and were ranked 6th in the State. It goes without saying that this opponent would give the Indians a run for their money. The first half was all Stigler. With a ferocious pass rush, QB Juan Martinez spent the entire half running for his life with no time to pass. The run game also stalled. Meanwhile, the Jaguars put points on the board using the power running of their tailback. The Indians displayed a certain lackluster performance on both sides of the ball. Both their blocking and tackling left much to be desired. There was one bright spot. Shortly before the end of the half, with Stigler up by 29-0,

Freshman Chase Benham launched himself to recover a loose ball mishandled by the Stigler Quarterback at the Stigler 18 yard line. A play of pure hustle. The Indians wasted little time to put their only points on the board when Martinez burrowed his way into the Stigler end zone. The extra point failed. The scoreboard read 29-6. A difficult task lay ahead for the Indians to try and get back into this game. Indeed, Stilwell looked like a different team in the second half. They were blocking and tackling with authority and stopping Stigler. The Jaguars managed only one score while the Indians put up 2 touchdowns. Yet Chase Benham is not the only Freshman making an impact. Freshman Brayton Carter, QB/WR, is also making his presence felt. In the second half, he reeled in a pass from QB Juan Martinez and took it to the house. With the extra point good, the Indians appeared momentarily to have a chance to get back into the game. Alas, this did not happen. Still, it gave the fans a thrill. Although it is yet early, both Benham and Carter appear to be on their way to becoming elite players. Time will tell. On offense, they had made an adjustment to counter the aggressive Stigler defense by executing delays and short out and screen passes. Martinez used the defense to his advantage. Although the final score showed Stigler 36 Stilwell 21, it could have been different if this game were not a tale of 2 halves. Just one more thing. Stilwell has tamed down their proclivity for penalties. They will need that as they face an always tough Hilldale Hornets team on September 22 for Homecoming. Kickoff at 7 pm. Come out and cheer the Indians on!

SHOULDER WISDOM

Insight is something that seems to be lacking in our society today, sometimes a few words can relay the answers to questions that we often tie ourselves into knots trying to solve. I have heard great speakers such as President Ronald Reagan give speeches that were awe inspiring, but when you take a good look at their quotes, many times he was using quotes by people that lived many years ago. I also like to read profound quotes by enlightened people from the past; recently I read a quote by Daniel Webster where he said, "God grants liberty only to those who love it, and are always ready to guard and defend it."

We Americans have become a victim of our own prosperity, we have become so accustomed to having the government provide for us something that we should be doing for ourselves. It was not that long ago when President John Kennedy made the comment, "Ask not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country." I am a conservative and happen to be registered Republican; while Kennedy was a Democrat. I believe that if he were alive today and had the same beliefs, he would be more aligned with the Republican party. The path of division, envy, and entitlement that our country is currently on is not what a stable and powerful country is built upon. We have too many elected officials who do not even comprehend the idea of statesmanship; political power and elitism is their only goal. They tell the people what they want to hear and promote agendas that will destroy our nation. One example is resident Joe Biden and his obsession with writing off student loan debt. The Supreme Court of the United States has recently ruled that the president does not have the authority to write off that debt with an executive order; even with that ruling, he still claims that he can write off those loans. It is my understanding that any such forgiveness of loans would have to go through Congress and not be subject to the whims of a clearly mentally deficient person occupying the White House.

It is very simple what resident Biden is doing, he is attempting to gain votes by doing an unconstitutional act just to get elected. He is using the promise of loan forgiveness just like you would use a carrot to entice an animal into a trap. What many American have forgotten is those carrots we might receive come at a high price when we elect those kinds of people; they do not care about the rule of law and the preservation of our liberty. Too many Americans are ready to sell their birthright of liberty and freedom for instant gratification. In the Bible there is a story about a man who sold his birthright for a pot of soup; later in the story he regretted that decision the rest of his life. Once liberty is lost it is very hard to regain it. We Americans are great only because we are standing upon the shoulders of our ancestors; they understood where our liberty came from. It is time we Americans to start reading some of those profound quotes and stand upon the shoulders of those who came before us. "God grants liberty only to those who love it, and are always ready to guard and defend it."

WHAT'S SO PUNNY?

PUN FUN

Here come the puns again; that means another week has flown by. Now is the time to give some more puns another try. Me oh my! Get your funny bone ready for another batch of rib ticklers. May your ribs ache a bit with laughter. After all, is that not what you are after?

1. Can You Dig It?: The shovel was a ground breaking invention. So soilfull!
2. Predicated Penalty: If a judge loves the sound of his own voice, expect a long sentence. Hoosegow here we come!
3. SoapSuds: I was addicted to soap...I am clean now. Scrubba Dub
4. No Telling Where?: I went to buy some camouflage trousers the other day, but I could not find any. Nobody noticed.
5. Try Not Again: If "at first you don't succeed", then skydiving is not for you! There you went!

How absolutely hilarious! Have you got an ache in your funny bone or maybe your ribs are sore now? Do not worry; it may rub off on someone else. Laughter is contagious and a smile opens doors to many friendships. Keep the grin going until next week for more PUN FUN.

Due to a numbering error, which was pointed out recently by one of our players, Week 2 got misnumbered as Week 3 creating an anomaly of sorts or perhaps a Krypto of its own? In any event, this is really week 7, so that next week's Krypto will be the final one for this go 'round.

So here we go. This week's answer is 25. You are playing with: 4, 5, 9, 23, 17. Remember, you must use all 5 numbers and any combination of addition, subtraction, multiplication or division to write an expression that equals the answer. This iteration of Krypto Kontest is still up for grabs, so if you have not yet thrown your hat into the ring, you still have a chance to grab the $25 cash and calculator prize. # Legacy

By Ronny Vann

Noun: Legacy, something transmitted by or received from an ancestor or predecessor or from the past. My last blog post entitled "Joe Scout" mentioned his service and what he liked to do namely fishing and playing ball. I forgot to mention that he also liked to do art whether painting or drawing and he was quite good at it. What does this have to do with the word "legacy" you wonder? Well ok, here goes. What is it you are going to leave as a reminder of who or what you were? You might think my children are my Legacy, but what if they do not turn out the way you wanted them too? Is it going to be money or possessions? Your name? Is it worth the paper it is written on?

We hear a lot about sports legacy or presidential legacy. A lot of these are not worthy of copying or emulating. Presidents make a lot of speeches about what they are going to do but it is mostly hot air. Sports stars talk of the team and the all for one mentality. Professional and college sports have now become about money and lots of it. Maybe your name on a stadium, a presidential library, or a street sign. As Ndn's we have a legacy of fighting for the land that tribes lived on and used for hunting and fishing. We have broken treaties and a lot of killing on both sides. Reservation life is different then what some Oklahoma tribes have but now even that is changing. The Mcgirt decision has put us back on the Rez! This idea of the Reservation is one I have tried so hard to stay away from. It is a different mind-set when we recognize these borders. To go past these and forge ahead for your people or kids is a better legacy then an inheritance of money, or possessions. After I had posted my last blog I saw where the school namely Dahlenegah had put up a sign. You think so what? Well, it had the picture of a Cherokee ndn that Joe had designed years ago. It had disappeared from the gym floor a few years back. Today it is on the activity bus, gym floor and the school sign. It is his legacy of giving something to the school. The school honoring that and who most of the students are. No, it is not a mascot! As some will probably protest in ignorance if they found out. As one person who saw it for the first time said "look it is Joe's ndn. Legacy: in Luke 12:16-21 it talks about a rich man who had so much he built more barns and was fully satisfied. He was going to live a life of leisure... but God said "fool this night your soul is required of you; then whose, will these things be?" Great Chiefs and warriors have come and gone as well as statesman. Their legacy remains but what about yours? Again, the question of what will you pass along or give to others? What I hope for is not a picture of wonderful me when I know I truly was not always wonderful! Nor great but just ok as a brother, uncle or even a cuz! If, you asked me, I pray that it is a sense of family. I become richer if I enrich their lives. I pray that is my legacy.

Editor's note: NDN is a shortening of Native Indian. This is usually used by Native Americans in the United States to refer to themselves.

Stilwell Football Fans Point of View

The Stilwell Indians took on Keys Cougars last Friday night and not only did the Cougars tower over the Indians but they also had a noticeable weight advantage as well; nevertheless, Stilwell still came out on top! However, while proudly spectating the game, I (along with other proud fans) could not help but notice that during the fourth quarter, though the Indians were well on their way to victory, one young man began arguing with his coach and then moments later several other young men began having confrontations which led to pushing and yelling. Thankfully, they separated themselves and it was quickly brought to the coaches' attention. As a fan and parent, I would like these young men to know that people not only notice how you handle yourself on the field but also how you support your team and handle yourself on the sidelines. This year's players have amazing potential and a very hopeful season ahead of them! I wish them nothing but the best and hope that they go into every game as a team with a common goal!

Sincerely,
A Proud Stilwell Fan

THE RETURN OF THE NATIVE

Story by John Bankel

Nepalese fighting force, the Gurkha, the same outfit that helped defeat the British in India's fight for independence in 1948. His friend spoke very good English which enabled him to be chosen to be a member of the security detachment for Queen Elizabeth's visit to New York City many years ago. Jack says that the people he met from these countries all want to come to America. They see the USA as a land of enormous opportunity. In my opinion, it is only when one lives in a foreign land that one can truly appreciate our American citizenship. When I asked Jack what led him to become involved in the Constitution Alive! Seminar Series, he said, "I listen to Bott Radio. At 5:30 everyday, Rick Green and David Barton host a program that tells about the founding of our Nation. I inquired about becoming a 'Coach' to facilitate a Constitution Alive! Seminar in Stilwell." He went on to say, "I do this at my own expense." Seems like Jack is back in the missionary field, only this time on his home turf. The Constitution Alive! Seminar is FREE. It is held on Tuesdays at 6 pm at the Stilwell Library. It will run until November 10. There are still 8 sessions left. If you have not yet plugged into this valuable resource, there is still plenty of time to join whenever you can. The class lasts about an hour and is brought by video facilitated by Jack.

Constitution Alive! facilitator, Jack Ogden

Although the title of this article is borrowed*, it does fit the story to a "T." Jack Ogden is back in Stilwell, where he was born many moons ago. He attended Starr Grade School for grades 1-5, and then Zion for Junior High School and finally finished his Stilwell education with a diploma from SHS. He went on to Southwestern Oklahoma College, now Southwestern Oklahoma University, to earn a Pharmacy Degree. That degree ended up taking him to Texas, where he spent 6 years, along with various places in Oklahoma, including a stint at the Veterans Center in Talihina. Yet his real reward came when he went on a mission trip to Nicaragua, where he spent 4 years helping local pharmacists supply much needed medicine to the poor. His overseas adventures did not stop there as he took on another missionary assignment clear across the other side of the globe. Jack stepped off the plane in Kathmandu, the capital city of Nepal, high in the Himalayas. His assignment was similar. While there, he befriended a member of the fierce
